Dear Mr. Harvey:

It is a particular pleasure for me to have this opportunity to invite the many thousands of loyal friends of Sad Sack to visit Washington, the evergreen state.

We would like all of you to share with us the bountiful treasures that nature has bestowed upon us, from sky-piercing mountains to rolling breakers of the Pacific Ocean.

Regardless of what your recreational desires are, you will be able to enjoy them here amid scenic splendor second to no other area in the nation.

Frankly, I wish there were some way we could get Sad Sack himself to visit us. It would be interesting to see his reaction upon hooking into a 40-pound King Salmon!

Sincerely,

Daniel J. Evans

SAD SACK

"A THRILLING SIGHT!"

The three wandering army visitors to Washington State were driving along enjoying the breath-taking scenery. Sad Sack, Sarge and Sadie were looking in every direction possible, so they wouldn't miss a bit of the fabulous scenery! Another huge vista would open up for them at each turn in the mountainous road. "Look at that fantastic view!" Sad Sack said. "That's nothing! Look to your right!" Sadie said. "Look to your rear!" the Sarge said. The Sad Sack's head was spinning in all directions as he steered the car. KA-RASH! The car slammed into a huge pine tree! "Why didn't you watch where you were going?" the Sarge yelled. "I was too busy looking at the scenery!" the Sack explained. "We'll just have to get out and walk," Sadie said as she saw the front of the car all smashed in and the radiator shooting up sky high like a geyser!

The three of them started walking along the road. There weren't any cars coming along because they were on the back dirt road they had taken to view the beautiful scenery. "Look down there by the river!" Sarge pointed. "Yes, it looks like a logging camp!" Sadie answered, because she could see all the logs in the river. They started climbing slowly down the side of the mountain but stepped on some soft dirt, and their feet slid out from under them. They got down the side of the mountain very fast after that, sliding and tumbling head over heels all the way down to the bottom! A couple of lumberjacks saw them and helped them to their feet. Sad Sack dusted himself off while he explained that they were tourists rambling around the countryside.

"Actually, we're glad to be here to see a real logging camp," Sadie said as the Sarge began looking around the area.

The Sarge was especially interested in the two men who were dancing on the log! "That's pretty good!" he commented. "That's darn good dancing!" "DANCING?" the lumberjacks laughed. "No! No!" They explained that they were playing a game of spin-the-log to see who would fall off into the water first. It was a game of skill to see who could spin-the-log to drop the other man off into the water! "That looks like so much fun—I'd like to try that!" the Sarge said to the Sad Sack. The lumberjacks helped the Sad Sack onto one end of the log and the Sarge onto the other! Both their legs started wobbling! It was hard for them to keep their balance. The lumberjacks now pushed the log, with Sad Sack and Sarge standing on it, out into the middle of the river. The log started spinning, and so did their legs!

It was all they could do to stay on the log! They were slipping and flipping their legs in every and all directions! The lumberjacks on shore, along with Sadie, were really laughing. "Now that's what I call DANCING!" Sadie said.

"I've had enough of this!" the Sad Sack said as he was all out of breath. "Me, too!" the Sarge agreed. "Let's DROP this!" The Sack said, "I'm all for DROPPING it, too!"

The log with Sad Sack and Sarge aboard started going down river away from the lumber camp.. "What's that loud gushing sound?" the Sarge asked, as the log they were on was now moving very fast and heading straight for the WATERFALL! "We're going to DROP this all right!" the Sack screamed as he put his arms around the Sarge.

The log with Sad Sack and Sarge shot out into the air over the waterfall and started tumbling to the bottom! It was a long drop down! The one end of the log konked the Sad Sack on the head a couple of times and the other end zonked the Sarge a few times, too! They finally hit the bottom of the waterfall. They went all the way to the very bottom of the deep pool of water! They both came up gasping for air with water spouting out of their mouths, noses and ears. They managed to crawl out of the water to the shore. Sadie and the lumberjacks arrived on the scene immediately! They had hot coffee and blankets for the water-drenched Sad Sack and Sarge. The lumberjacks drove the three of them back to their motel.

That night the Sad Sack wrote a postcard to his buddy, Slob Slobinski, back at the army camp. He wrote, "Washington State is beautiful! We WENT OVER BIG for it today!"

Are you ready for a Daisy B·B Gun? Your parents have ways of knowing.

Remember when you got your bike? You promised to use it safely. Stay off busy streets. Look before you cross an intersection. Keep it out of the driveway.

Well, safety is even more important with a Daisy than with a bike. Because a Daisy is a B•B gun. It's not a toy.

If you keep those promises with your bike, your parents will see that you're ready for a Daisy.

We think every boy should have the thrill of owning a Daisy B•B Gun. But we want him to be ready.

We want him to know about the responsibility of owning a B•B gun.

So, before you ask for a Daisy, think it over. Discuss it with your parents. Tell them how you've kept your promise and met your responsibilities.

When you find that you're ready for a Daisy, you'll find a Daisy B•B Gun ready and waiting for you.

Send for "The Air Rifle Marksman." Mail your name, address, and 25c to Daisy, P.O. Box 220, Rogers, Arkansas 72756.
